Attention: Small business operators, online business owners, webmasters and others trying to find a better way to manage remote workers plus information sharing and business communications. Transform the way you do business - making your operations faster & more efficient with Google's powerful online applications! Finally, a tutorial series that's guaranteed to help you master Google infrastructure & make business communications & information sharing a breeze! *Are you looking for a better way to manage emails, document sharing, websites, domain registration and more? *Would you like to feel confident that all your employees were grouped correctly to securely receive and share essential business information? *Do you want to make business communication faster and more user friendly with a complete system that manages the full spectrum of tools you require? If you run a business with one or more employees, then you face the challenge of ensuring that all your business 'stakeholders' can access the essential information they need for their roles. While you may find there are different solutions available, for many small businesses these solutions are simply too expensive to justify their use in their day to day operations. Are on the endless search for a quality solution? I'm sure you have tried some of the so called answers, but if you need a real solution, then you need to explore an online option that doesn't rely on you incorporating expensive infrastructure purely for handling emails, electronically storing business documents and hosting your own websites. What you need is a solution that is web based - offering the benefits of having your own virtual intranet - without the crippling expense that puts this option out of reach of many small or online businesses. There is an answer - and you can master this solution to great effect! I'm going to tell you more about that in a moment, but firstly let me introduce myself... Dear Friend, Hello, my name is Deep Arora As a small business owner and online business expert - I too faced the challenges of how to email my employees and contractors, how to share business documents and information so that different groups could find what they needed and how to manage websites, domain names and more. I worked with several different options and did seriously consider setting up my own intranet for my business - at great expense- using my own server space and IT people to run it. The potential cost of such a project escalated rapidly and I was facing a tough decision about how badly did I want or need to implement these measures. The Search For A Cost Effective Business Management Solution... My search for a quality solution that was cost effective led me to try a number of different options. What I discovered was that there were many programs that provided business communication tools, email, document transfer facilities and web and domain options. What I failed to find was one software solution that could deliver me a comprehensive system that worked across a number of different levels and provide cost effective management of these different aspects... What I needed was a way to do this without paying for an intranet structure that necessitated server rental, site hosting and expensive implementation and maintenance. I wanted more 'bang for my buck' - I was running small business and regularly outsourced work to contractors. In doing this I needed a way to create groups for user access to different business documentation and sensitive information. I needed to find a solution that would keep costs down while providing the maximum number of tools to achieve the goals I had set for my business and ensure that I could work cost effectively towards those goals. Finding Comprehensive Answers Without Spending A Small Fortune If you are in business for yourself, then I'm sure these problems sound familiar. The search for a way to handle your business and ensure your employees have the information they need to do their work is problematic. While there are solutions available - the cost puts them way out of reach for small business owners. You know that there is a need to manage the different aspects of your business, but doing so successfully is a challenge. What you really need is: *A way to communicate via email with your colleagues and employees *A means to manage and maintain your business website more easily *An effective way to share documents, business information and other business related data *A domain registration that ties in with the other aspects you manage for your business *An inexpensive option for handling business communication and sharing of information Without implementing the right tools - you'll find that you fall short in one or more of these areas. The problem then is how to implement all these things without resorting to patched together solutions that ‘fall over’ at the most critical point in time. Your business could quickly start running into trouble if you can't get these things working for you and you fail to find a business solution that genuinely delivers the full range of tools you need. If you've tried to secure an efficient solution, then you are probably tearing your hair out by now trying to work out how to get results without the cost making your goal unachievable. You need a solution that cuts to the heart of what you need and provides you with REAL answers! I was where you are - I understand how it feels - so now let me show you. How The Google Tools Transformed My Business When I tapped into the power of the Google infrastructure I finally discovered a solution that allowed me to master my online business activities. This range of tools truly got the ticks in all the boxes. I finally had a means of managing a whole range of business elements. The tools covered sharing of documents, website maintenance and domain registration, user accounts, plus user groups and more Best of all - the service was online - so I eliminated costs of server space, expensive web hosting and more! Sounds great - but how can you implement these tools in your business? Well, that's where I can help.
