

Economic Choices in a Warming World - Christian de Perthuis

Since the publication of the Stern Review, economists have started to ask more normative questions about climate change. Should we act now or tomorrow? What is the best theoretical carbon price to rea

