Multimodal Composing in Classrooms: Learning and Teaching for the Digital World

Taking a close look at multimodal composing as an essential new literacy in schools, this volume draws from contextualized case studies across educational contexts to provide detailed portraits of