There is much discussion these days about public diplomacy-communicating directly with the people of other countries rather than through their diplomats—but little information about what it actua