

Better health in harder times: Active citizens and innovation on the frontline

This book renews the collective compact that created our public services in the 1940s using voices from service users and service providers. Sections explore long-term conditions, service redesign, in

