Organizing Schools to Encourage Self-Direction in Learners

Summarizes and synthesizes four case studies of schools organized to develop self-direction in students. A theoretical perspective on the origins of self-direction is presented and integrated with th