To Alcatraz, Death Row, and Back: Memories of an East La Outlaw - Ernie Lopez

When Ernie López was a boy selling newspapers in Depression-era Los Angeles, his father beat him when he failed to bring home the expected eighty to ninety cents a day. When the beatings became unbea