

Engendering Interaction with Images - Audrey Bennett

No longer passive spectators of images, these days we are more likely to be active participants in their production, distribution, and consumption - which raises important questions about the conseque

