Talking Policy: How social policy is made - , Rob Watts

An introduction to the process of social policy making in Australia. The authors emphasise the intensely human and political nature of the development of social services and programs, illustrating the