Vocational Education in the New Eu Member States: Enhancing Labor Market Outcomes and Fiscal Efficiency - , Godfrey Martin Godfrey

Vocational education often is ignored during discussions of secondary education reform even though it accounts for between 25 percent and 79 percent of upper secondary enrollment in the former central