Wanderwords: Language Migration in American Literature
- Maria Lauret

How do (im)migrant writers negotiate their representation of a multilingual world for a monolingual audience? Does their English betray the presence of another language, is that other language erased,