Still Working It Out: Poems - Brad Davis

In various voices and with a range of strategies, these poems speak of and into the collisions we experience day in and day out—collisions with nature, art, language, religion, family, imagination, n