

Digital Government at Work

A Social Informatics Perspective

Over the past decade, putting public services on-line has been a focus of huge policy and financial investments aimed at providing more joined-up service delivery.

