

An Introduction to Psychological Care in Nursing and the Health Professions - Helena Priest

Caring is at the core of what nurses and other health professionals do. But caring encompasses more than simply looking after people's physical health needs. People requiring any health service will

