

Decidability of Parameterized Verification - , Swen Jacobs

While the classic model checking problem is to decide whether a finite system satisfies a specification, the goal of parameterized model checking is to decide, given finite systems  $??(n)$  parameterized

