In this memoir, the son of a single mother and father who he did not have a relationship with in the southern state of Georgia searches for answers as to why his father was not in his life. It begins